

The Plus-Minus One Path Paradox is low in evolution. Ever since the leonine hierarchy where the King Dictator ruled the Den and all others would die in his name, Dictatorship: bestial, secular and spiritual has reigned on Earth since 2.0 evolutions. The bestial is where one would find ixior in a fight over precious water, for the top dog has to lead the pack when there is little evolution and no civility. Survival is of the fittest. The secular, as well as the spiritual forms of dictatorship, can be bestial. 2nd degree entities are spiritual in a primitive fashion; however, their lives depend strongly on secular survival. 3rd degree entities are spiritual in a more advanced fashion. Due to the physical universe of their habitat, they may look upon it with logic, or they may look upon it with philosophy. Dictatorship can evolve from its bestial form to its 3rd degree form, where Leaders may protect, or else, use and abuse their Pack. The Plus-Minus One Path Paradox is all of this where one's path, whether secular or spiritual, is considered by them to be the only way of the entire universe. If two biases both consider their one path the only one path of the entire universe, we have thus defined the Plus-Minus One Path Paradox.